BILLIARDS,

Daly Leads De Oro in First Night's Play at Three Cushions.

NEW YORK, October 11.-The billiard season in this city opened last night with a match at three-cushion carroms at Doyle's 42d street academy. John Daly, the champion, defended his title against Alfred De Oro, the former champion. The match is at 150 points and will last three nights, 50 points being played at each

With two such brilliant exponents of this style of game crossing cues the attendance was very large, and those present saw some remarkable billiards. Daly was at his best, and with the night's play half over he drew away from De Ore in remarkable style.

The two men were tied with 25 each and then Daly made 4, 3, 2 and 4 in succession. After that he went for everything in sight and made his 50 when De Oro had 29 on his string.

Daly's high run was 4 and he made this four times. De Oro's best run was 3, It took eighty-six innings to complete the score. Harry Cline officiated as referee.

Anderson, who formerly played with one of the western universities, is the best plunging back in the Yale squad. In every one of the preliminary games his work has featured. His one fault seems to be his inability to pick his openings.

Two scholastic games are booked for today. Technical High will play the Gallaudet Reserves, while the Business eleven will meet the Georgetown Preps. Tech should defeat the Gallaudet Reserves without much trouble, while the Preps will probably win from Business.

I did not see much of the girl undergraduates, bar admiring their pleasant, ladylike appearance, as my time was so limited and there was so much to the girl to players I have not yet seen enough to form any opinion, although on one point I am sure, it is certainly more dangerous than Rugby.

See. It would require another quite long I think the forward pass that I admire see. It would require another quite long visit before I could give an opinion on this intermingling of the sexes, which must absolutely have a great effect on future social conditions and must be for the good of all concerned.

I think the forward pass that I admire so much adds to that. It gives rise to sharp, quick falls when running at the fastest pace, but then what matter, every fine sport has its dangers; has not polo, fox hunting, steeplechasing, and those

Fiery and impetuous, he instills into his players his own fighting spirit. McGraw uses few words in coaching. A wave of his arm means "Come on," his outspread hands mean "Stop." Simple signs, but unmistakable and peremptory. There is no one in base ball who can tell more instantly when a base runner has a good chance to stretch a hit or to score and when he has not. When one of the Giants goes to bat it is often noticeable that he glances over to where his leader crouches on the coaching lines. A word, a look or a gesture may tell him exactly what is expected of him. McGraw trusts, almost entirely to his snap judgment, and his ability to detect any favorable moment men are trained to rely implicitly upon for a certain maneuver amounts to genius. Mack also directs his players, but he does it by signaling from the bench, and therefore lacks the instant control over a situation enjoyed by McGraw. The Philadelphia man's judgment of a hit ball may be just as accurate, but he is not at third base to hold the runner or wave him in. In a case like this, therefore, it would seem that his judgment to have a situation enjoyed by McGraw.
